

About BabyMed

Since its inception in 2000, babyMed.com has become a leading online resource for women and couples who are pregnant or trying to conceive.

babyMed is one of the largest fertility and pregnancy online resource centers. It was designed with one goal in mind: to help women get pregnant faster and have a healthier pregnancy. babyMed achieves this goal by helping couples maximize their fertility through the use of personalized and interactive tools, as well as calendars and quizzes, which empower, educate, and ultimately improve their chances of getting pregnant.

About Amos Grunebaum, M.D.

The founder of babyMed is Dr. Amos Grunebaum, a world famous Ob-Gyn who specializes in Maternal-Fetal Medicine. babyMed.com is a reflection of his 30+ years of experience in the field. Dr. Grunebaum is solely responsible for the tools you will find on the site, which he originally developed for his own medical practice and now shares for free across the globe. Dr. Grunebaum believes that all people deserve access to the best in fertility and prenatal care. babyMed.com is his way of achieving just that.

“Only a life lived for others is a life worthwhile.”

Albert Einstein

Features of the BabyMed Community

Dashboards

Our dashboards offer the ability to create curated collections of your favorite content. These can be easily accessed by you, or viewed by and shared with other users. As you engage with the babyMed community you are likely to interact with others in the same stage of your fertility / pregnancy / parenting journey. Use their dashboards to discover information and tools that are helpful to them and / or share your dashboards with others who will benefit from your expert curation skills.

Groups

Engage in community groups with others who share your experience or learn from others in different stages. Struggling with trying to conceive (TTC) and want to know the side effects of a medication prescribed by your doctor? Ask the TTC community group for their experience with the drug and get a sense of what you should expect. Deciding between two baby names and want to ask others for their favorite? The pregnancy community group is sure to have an opinion on the matter.

Journals

A babyMed journal is a place for you to record and process your experience. You can keep your journal entries private or share them with other babyMed community members and friends. Whether it's your thoughts, feelings, or a funny story or blog post, what you share is up to you. The babyMed community is here to support you, we're all friends here.

Tools

Our tools are created by babyMed's own world-class obstetrician, Dr. Amos Grunebaum, and are there to aid you on your fertility and pregnancy journey. From ovulation tracking to the fetal kick count, babyMed offers you free, round-the-clock access to tools that will help you get pregnant faster and have a healthier pregnancy.

Photo Albums

Use the photo album feature to share your visual journey with the babyMed community and your friends and family around the world. This is the place to post ultrasound photos, snaps of your positive pregnancy test and photos of your little ones on their birthday. Let others in on your life in pictures.

Forums

Babymed's forums are a place for community members to discuss just about anything. Get opinions and feedback from other users about trying to conceive, pregnancy, and child rearing, or provide support to other members during their infertility or pregnancy journey. The forums and their members are here for you.